

Melanoma Awareness Day on Fountain Square

When: Wednesday, May 17, 2017 from 11am – 1pm (Setup @ 10am)

Where: Fountain Square – Downtown Cincinnati

Attendance History: 500+ individuals who work downtown

Purpose: To engage individuals in our community about the importance of sun-safety, skin cancer awareness and prevention.

Event Details: Various booths are set up from local hospitals, organizations, wellness and preventive medicine vendors, etc. to educate the community about the importance of sun-safety, skin cancer awareness and prevention, and more. The event will also feature a local band, Room for Zero, and a brief program highlighting local area melanoma warriors.

Additional Information: Melanoma Know More is a Cincinnati based non-profit organization that provides free monthly skin cancer screening clinics, school, youth and community education and awareness programming, funding for critical research, and providing information to the medical community about the importance of early detection.
